

Goodfellow Headquarters Celebrates 20 Years at Their Huntingdon Location

Huntingdon (UK) ... 11 November 2019 ... The headquarters of the Goodfellow Group of companies and location of Goodfellow Cambridge Limited celebrated 20 very productive years at their Huntingdon, England location on November 11th. Established in the City of London in 1946, Goodfellow subsequently did business for many years from offices in the Cambridge Science Park before moving to Huntingdon in 1999. Today the Huntingdon location houses the Group's research laboratories, production and workshop facilities, and central administration.

“Our move in 1999 provided not only more space for inventory, production facilities and a more streamlined workflow, it put us in a great position to draw from an exceptionally good pool of talent for recruitment,” states Goodfellow CEO Stephen Aldersley.

In addition, improved transport links in Huntingdon for receipt and distribution of product help support the Company's associate operations in France, Germany, America and China. Today, Goodfellow serves more than 6,000 customers worldwide with a network of offices, agents and distributors.
