

Goodfellow Forms New Ceramic and Glass Division

Huntingdon ... 26 October 2012 ... Goodfellow, a leading international supplier of metals and materials for research and industry, has announced the formation of the Goodfellow Ceramic and Glass Division, dedicated solely to materials and finished components in ceramic and glass.

“The new Goodfellow Ceramic and Glass Division is a natural extension of our strength as a full-service materials supplier, providing both semi-finished forms of material for customers to machine themselves and finished components that we offer precision-machined to customer drawings,” says Stephen Aldersley, managing director of Goodfellow.

Complementing the activities of the new division, the company has launched a dedicated website, www.goodfellow-ceramics.com, that provides a wealth of information including technical data and case studies about the wide range of ceramics and glasses offered. Goodfellow ceramic specialists can also be reached through the website, by email at ceramic@goodfellow.com, or by calling +44 1480 424 888.
